By THOMAS POWELL.

*Summum hominis bonum, bonus ex hac vita

LONDON.
 Printed by B.A. and T. F. for Ben: Fisher, and are to be sold at his Shop at the signe of the Talbot without Aldersgate. 1637.

TO THE TRVE
 NOBLE GENTLEMAN
 THOMAS MEVVTYS Esquire, and Clarke of his Majesties
most Honourable privie Councell.

SIR,

Hen the Printer hereof called vpon mee for an Epistle Dedicatorie to it, I tooke penne and paper and began it thus, viz. (To the High and Mightie,) but I found presently that my voyce could not reach to that
 E. La: PLINIE had set it to a Lower note with Non est familiaritas hominibus cum cælis: Then I scratcht out that and began (To the right Honourable,) but I was so puzzell'd to find out a man that could challenge the tytle in right of his owne abilitie, that I drew my pen through that too;
 Then I fell vpon (The right Worshipfull;) And (me thought

The Epistle Dedicatorie.

thought) that would fit like the Seale-ring of an Alderman vpon the fore-finger of my Booke : And to descend so low as to (Pierce peerelesse for Plow-proiect.) I knew him to be capable of nothing, but a most excellent tune to coole the horse taile with whistling after it. There (rubbing my forehead : & demorsos sapiens unguis, I found that I was gone the cleane contrary way : Goodnesse onely is the marke at which euery good man should ayme. And there is nothing worthy of Hatchment or Title, but by reason of the attribution of Goodnes vnto it (semitur sola virtute.) This was it especially that made mee select you out of a world of men to patronize this little worke with your great worth, for your countenance will serue like ALEXANDERS finger to hide the scarres vpon the face of it. Giue me leaue to acknowledge your euen respect of mee in either fortune, which as I could neuer distinguish so shall I neuer disrepute it : while I am able to draw but so much breath as wherewith to pronounce me,

Ever bounden to the acknowledgement of your goodnesse :

THO : POWELL.

TO

TO THE READER.

Haue little to say to the Readers hereof, because I conceiue the number of them to be but small. consisting onely of Attornies, Solicitors, Clarks, practising in either Law, and Stewards of Courts of diuers kindes: But beleue me the vse of it will bee of great importance to all sorts of people whatsoener. For that it may concerne them daily for one vse or other: It may bee that some few stiles of Courts bee omittted herein and other few bee past imperfect; It was not out of pride and scorn to borrowe out of other mens colle^{cti}ons but of a meere bashfulnesse to make knowne my wants to those who happilie would turne it to an unhappie sport and derision: Let euery one that findes such omistion or imperfection in this little booke, adde or mend as much with his penne as he can better warrant or his collection supplie. So shall it with many hands within few dayes attaine a full perfection, and I arrive at the highest of my ambition herein resting.

To the Reader.

A poore votarie to common good,

Tho: Powell.
